

Housing Who?

Meredith Bowles
Director
Mole Architects, Cambridge

Meredith Bowles of Mole Architects will be reflecting on a number of housing projects, and the ways in which assumptions have been made about how people will occupy these imagined homes. Who are we designing for? What information are we going on? Who are we to know? Mole Architects have been designing houses for people over the last 15 years, from individuals with clear ideas, to imagined communities with no voice, as well as the Cambridge Co-Housing project, from initial designs and community engagement by CAR.
