

Doing Things Differenter

Matt Bagnall and Alun Shooter The District

“You could call us a Creative Agency, a Design Agency, or a Branding Agency, to a degree how we are defined is irrelevant. What matters is what we do and more importantly how we do it.”

The District work in brand, digital, print and film. Over the past thirteen years they have helped clients sell energy drinks, got bums on seats and people through doors. We've put a Science Centre without a home on the map, brought bricks and mortar to life and changed the face of the high street through art.

Join Matt and Alun for a very informal amble through some of their recent work.
