

High Speed 2

An Engineering Project or a Programme for Restructuring the UK Economy?

Rotterdam Central Station

John Worthington

Commissioner Independent Transport Commission

Reflecting on Ambitions and Opportunities, the Independent Transport Commission's review of the spatial effects of High Speed Rail, and after a long career of instigating change, John will explore the catalytic opportunities mega infrastructure projects provide to stimulate change.

Will the act of building infrastructure create social and economic success or do you have to first ensure you have nurtured a place where people will wish to come and then stay?
